

AGENDA ITEM SUMMARY

BACKGROUND

The State of Oregon and the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua, and Siuslaw Indians (CTCLUSI) are sovereign entities that desire to continue to advance the government-to-government relationship between the parties. The CTCLUSI is a federally-recognized Indian tribe located within the geographic borders of Oregon. CTCLUSI is headquartered in Coos Bay and has land holdings generally located in the area between Florence and Coos Bay. The Tribes and Bands comprising CTCLUSI resided throughout an extensive range of southern Oregon and hunted, fished, and gathered throughout the region.

The Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife (department) and CTCLUSI have a shared interest in how fish and wildlife and their habitats are managed in Oregon and seek to proactively and voluntarily cooperate to establish a framework under which the CTCLUSI's members may participate in hunting, fishing, trapping, and gathering in a culturally relevant way.

The department has worked with CTCLUSI to create a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) to establish a voluntary, cooperative partnership to collaborate, share resources, and work as partners to develop and implement plans to protect, restore, and enhance fish and wildlife populations and their habitat within a specific geography of Oregon. The agreement to establish this partnership also sets up a framework under which tribal members will participate in subsistence and ceremonial harvest of fish and wildlife resources that is licensed and managed by the tribal government in cooperation with the department and the Oregon State Police.

PUBLIC INVOLVEMENT

This agreement has been developed through direct, government-to-government negotiations between the CTCLUSI and the state of Oregon through the department. The public received notice of the draft MOA and proposed administrative rules by notice in the Secretary of State's Bulletin on April 25, 2023 (Attachment 2). The Tribe has engaged in outreach to other federally recognized tribes in Oregon to share details of the terms of the MOA. The department offered government-to-government consultation with the other eight federally recognized tribes in Oregon on May 4, 2023. Members of the public may provide written and oral comment for the Commission's consideration.

ISSUE 1

Memorandum of Agreement to Define Exercise of Hunting, Fishing, Trapping, and Gathering of the Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians and its Members and for Cooperative Management of Natural Resources Between The Confederated Tribes of Coos, Lower Umpqua and Siuslaw Indians and The State of Oregon, by and through the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife.

ANALYSIS

The department's mission to protect and enhance Oregon's fish and wildlife and their habitats for use and enjoyment by present and future generations closely aligns with the history and culture of the nine federally recognized tribes in Oregon. Members of these tribes and their ancestors have followed cultural practices related to sustainable management of fish and wildlife since time immemorial. Tribes are also unique among the department's partners because they are sovereign governments, not stakeholders.

The Tribes are critical partners for the department as we seek to address the challenges related to climate change, pressures on water, fire, and many other issues that will affect the resilience of fish and wildlife now and in the future. The proposed MOA between the department and the CTCLUSI will strengthen the ability of the Tribe to engage in this important fish and wildlife conservation work that will benefit all Oregonians.

The proposed MOA advances the government-to-government relationship between the state and the tribe, enhances tribal sovereignty, enhances the tribe's ability to contribute to positive outcomes for fish and wildlife, and will increase opportunities for tribal members to harvest fish and wildlife resources consistent with tribal values. By facilitating this reconnection with tribally important resources, cultural practices, and access to the first foods that are managed by the department, the state of Oregon is able to address historic losses of opportunity for the tribes while giving the tribes a stronger voice in protecting and enhancing fish, wildlife, and their habitats for future generations of Oregonians.

CTCLUSI members have used the fish, wildlife, and plant resources throughout the full extent of their traditional territory since time immemorial, and those resources have been essential to and have provided the foundation for the Tribe's sustenance, commercial livelihood, culture, and spiritual life. CTCLUSI members traditionally and historically engaged in various forms of commerce with tribal and non-tribal people with fish and wildlife being an important subject of exchange.

The CTCLUSI Constitution established the Tribal government, in part, to secure the rights and powers inherent to the Tribe and its members and to preserve and promote Tribal culture, religious, and historical beliefs. A unique requirement of the Constitution is that the Tribal membership must approve the negotiation of any agreement impacting hunting, fishing, and gathering activities. On October 22, 2022, the membership, by a vote of 338 to 1, approved beginning the negotiation of this proposed MOA.

The geographic scope of the proposed MOA is based on CTCLUSI's federal service area and includes all of the Wildlife Management Units in Lincoln, Lane, Douglas, Coos, and Curry counties. The geographic scope includes the associated nearshore marine areas to these Wildlife Management Units.

Within this geography, enrolled members of the CTCLUSI will be able to participate in hunting, fishing, trapping, and gathering licensed by the Tribe. The department and the Tribe will also coordinate on proactive fish, wildlife, and habitat conservation activities in this area.

The proposed MOA includes a framework for tribal members to participate in subsistence and ceremonial harvest of fish and wildlife resources within the defined geography. Harvest of fish and wildlife by tribal members would be regulated, licensed and enforced by the tribal government in cooperation with the department and the Oregon State Police (OSP). Annual harvest limits and areas will be set by mutual consent between the Tribe and department staff.

The proposed MOA is limited to subsistence and ceremonial harvest. The Tribe would not be implementing any commercial harvest opportunities. "Subsistence harvest" is harvest consistent with tribal cultural practices for acquiring traditional foods and other resources for personal, familial or community sharing. Subsistence harvest is likely to occur during generally similar times and in similar locations to the state's usual recreational harvest opportunities, but some differences should be anticipated. "Ceremonial harvest" provides traditional foods for tribe or community-wide events that acknowledge and perpetuate religious, cultural, and other traditions. It may also include other traditional family group ceremonies. Ceremonial harvest may occur throughout the year. The overarching intent is that the Tribe and the department will seek to provide tribal members harvest opportunities and experiences afield that are consistent with the Tribe's cultural norms while being consistent with conservation needs of Oregon's fish and wildlife.

As a result of this new framework, many tribal members who already participate in hunting, fishing, trapping or gathering are likely to shift to obtaining tribal licenses and tags instead of state licenses and tags, at least for activities within the geographic range of this agreement. Even if there is an increase in tribal member participation and tribal harvest as a result of this MOA, it would be a very small fraction of the hunting and fishing in this geography. The department expects this to result in a negligible reduction in revenue and a negligible change in the impact of hunting and fishing to existing fish and wildlife populations.

Upon adoption of this MOA, the CTCLUSI will develop hunting, fishing, and trapping regulations overseeing take of fish and wildlife by their members that parallel the department's regulations, related Oregon Revised Statutes, and federal laws that oversee take of fish and wildlife by the general public. The Tribe has committed to abiding to Oregon Revised Statutes related to hunting, including but not limited to those statutes documented in Appendix A of the MOA. The department, OSP and the Tribe will work together to ensure relevant regulations are enforced for tribal and non-tribal members.

This proposed MOA is intended to shape the government-to-government relationship between the department and the Tribe for many years. Implementation of the agreement would commence immediately upon adoption by both the Tribal Council and the Fish and Wildlife Commission.

Implementation of the subsistence and ceremonial harvest portion of the agreement will occur through annual meetings at which the Tribe will propose a list of species that tribal members plan to harvest and description of the limits and areas of that harvest. The Tribe and department staff will work together to reach consensus on the limits and areas for each species every year. The Tribe and department staff will interact frequently in the course of performing their fish and wildlife management responsibilities and will also meet annually to share information and discuss the proactive fish, wildlife, and habitat management planning and actions that each organization would like to pursue each year. As a result of these meetings, opportunities to share resources and work together on specific issues will be identified and implemented collaboratively each year.
